

Helping Your Child Catch the Reading Bug

Encouraging your child to read is probably the best education you can give them - but sometimes it seems like an uphill struggle! As part of our Parent Development Program, Explorations Preschool organized a forum entitled "Helping Your Child Catch the Reading Bug".

Teacher Beni Ancheta-Veloso, together with parents Benjie and Aileen Lerma and Ana and Stevie Araneta, put together a collection of tips and tricks to encourage the love for reading in the toddler and pre-school years. Teacher Beni is a mother of a 5 year old boy, a graduate of Bank Street College of Education, New York with a degree in Masters in Science in Early Childhood Education and Elementary Education, a speaker, workshop facilitator and a consultant. She is currently the Assistant Directress and Curriculum Coordinator of Explorations Preschool.

The forum will be held on March 6, 2010, Saturday from 9:00AM - 11:00AM at Explorations Preschool. Attendance to the forum is free for parents of Explorations. Other parents are welcome to attend for a fee of 300php. This includes snacks and handouts.
